EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. This office action is in response to Applicant's amendment filed on 25 April 2006.
2. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Mr. Michael Turner on 17 July 2006.

The application has been amended as follows:

Claims 15 through 26. (Canceled)

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-14 are allowed. Claims 1 and 8 are the independent claims.
4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The closest prior art of record is Applicant's Admitted Prior Art, which was applied to the claims in the office action mailed 26 January 2006, and Kawase et al. (U.S. Patent 5,443,585). The studies disclosed in the specification, applied as prior art in the rejection of the claims, were not disclosed as prior art by the Applicant (as explained in Applicant's amendment, pages 10-11), and these portions of the rejections are withdrawn. Therefore Applicant's Admitted Prior Art does not disclose "wherein the drilling fluid flows into an elongate fluid return path initially forming a maximum angle β , relative to the hole axis when viewed radially, which is greater than sixty-six degrees in order to effectively cool the cutting edge at the tip end with minimal drilling fluid stagnation", as required in claim 1 and as defined on page 19 of the instant specification, or that "the outlet passage having a minimum cross-sectional area which is less than a longitudinal cross-sectional area of the bottom space area taken along the hole axis", as required in claim 8 and as defined on pages 12 and 15 of the instant specification. Therefore, Applicant's Admitted Prior Art does not anticipate the present invention as set forth in independent claims 1 and 8.

Kawase et al. discloses a gundrill 1 with a tubular shank 11 and a cutting member 12 that includes a tip orifice 16 that discharges cutting fluid, wherein the drilling fluid flows into an elongate fluid return path 17. Kawase et al. does not disclose any information concerning the initial angle of the fluid return path, nor does any other prior art of record, and as such does not disclose "wherein the drilling fluid flows into an elongate fluid return path initially forming a maximum angle β , relative to the hole axis when viewed radially, which is greater than sixty-six degrees in order to effectively cool the cutting edge at the tip end with minimal drilling fluid stagnation". Also, Kawase et al. teachings include increasing the cross-sectional area of the chip outlet passage, which is contrary to the teachings of the instant application, and as such does not disclose "the outlet passage having a minimum cross-sectional area which is less than a longitudinal cross-sectional area of the bottom space area taken along the hole axis". Therefore,

Kawase et al. does not anticipate the present invention as set forth in independent claims 1 and 8.

Additionally, there is no combinable teaching in the prior art that would reasonably motivate one having ordinary skill in the art to so modify the teachings of Kawase et al., and thus, for at least the foregoing reasoning, the prior art of record does not render obvious the present invention as set forth in independent claims 1 and 8.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Eric A. Gates whose telephone number is 571-272-5498. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Thursday 7:45-6:15.
